Healing gardens have become an important part of the healing process for cancer patients throughout the nation, these gardens have become a safe, meditative place that helps rejuvenate patients, family members and staff.

By surrounding patients with the sights, sounds and smells of nature, the healing garden will help reduce stress, alleviate anxiety and promote the natural healing process.

Community members can support the creation of this tranquil space for their family members, friends and neighbors who are battling cancer.

A brick pathway throughout the gardens can be engraved to carry your personal message or honor a special person in your life.
